ROWETT-STOLL CONTEST WILL BE HARD FOUGHT

Stoll Claims to Be in His Old Time Form and Should Worry Rowett.

CALUMET MAN IS SKILLFUL

When Herman Stoll of Calumet, challenger for the Cornish wrestling championship now held by Jack Rowett, the Bessemer game warden, faces the title holder at the Calumet theatre on Saturday, December 15, the lovers of the game will see one of the finest matches that has ever been arranged.

Stoll is one of the best heavy wrestlers ever developed in Calumet. He handles his weight with ease. He is aggressive, and is a student of the finer points of the game.

Rowett realizes that Stoll will give him a hard match and is striving to get in the best possible condition for the bout.

SHOULD GET MONTHLY PAY.

The ancient gag about the ball player playing exhibition games during the off season has been dug up again, and some more chewing the cloth is in order.

There is only one way to overcome this obstacle—to pay the men a certain amount of their stipends each month instead of giving them big bulks of it at a time.

EASTERN CRITIC PLACES MICHIGAN IN THIRD RANK

Believes Wolverines Should Follow Yale and Harvard Teams This Year.

DISCREDITS THE ONE DEFEAT

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 8.—In attempting to rank the leading college eleven for this year one encounters no difficulty in selecting the first two, Yale, of course, heads the list. The Elis were the only team in the whole country that went through the season undefeated, unscathed upon and without being tied.

The real difficulty starts when attempting to pick the team which deserves third place. This has been variously given to Michigan, Pennsylvania, Dartmouth and Lafayette. The Wolverines have but one defeat to their discredit.

GOOD INDOOR BASEBALL.

If the Calumet Light Guard armory is placed in condition for indoor baseball by tomorrow evening, the first game of the season will take place there between the North Tamarack and the Y.M.C.A. teams.

CAN BAT NELSON DEFEND CHAMPIONSHIP HONORS?

A year or so ago the number of classy lightweights was rather slim, but during the past twelve months there has been quite a change and now there are several contenders for Batting Nelson's crown, all of whom can justly claim a chance at the title without being put in as second graders.

is not a question now of how bad Batting Nelson could beat the group of lightweights to be found, but rather can Nelson hold his title against at least three lightweights who are now challenging him, namely, Ad Wolgast, Freddy Welsh and Packer McFarland.

$5,000 to back up his claims for a match. Of the entire list the best match appears to be that between Welsh and Nelson, owing to the fact that it would be an international affair and it would decide the world's championship, Welsh having won the title of Great Britain by defeating all comers over there during the past eight months.

matched with Nelson four months ago and only through a little mixup of the managers the bout fell through. There is no doubt that in a contest of twenty-five rounds McFarland would stand a splendid chance with Nelson and it would be a battle worth going to see.

Prisco featherweight champion, in a contest of twenty-five rounds or more, and he has agreed to make 124 pounds ringside for Attell or 122 pounds at 3 o'clock. This is very fair on the part of Wolgast in view of the fact that Attell has met Nelson and other stars at 133 pounds. It is not likely that Nelson will get into another match until next spring and when he does it will no doubt be with one of the above named quartette of lightweights.

star heavyweights in the field at present as there are lightweights and featherweights. If there were it would prove a great boom to the boxing game.—Evening Wisconsin.

Fortune's Whims. "Where did you get that hand full of change?" asked Meandering Mike. "It was forced on me," answered Plooding Pete. "A lady up de road aiked de dog on me. I had to steal de pup an' sell 'im in self-defense."
